Supporting conservation, funding research universities, and expanding the commercial application of renewable energy systems are just a few projects that are top priorities to ensuring a better life for us all. This summit will also include a fair with information on the latest energy efficient products. In the 26th Congressional District, we run the gamut on renewable energy – from solar panels to wind turbines. We are leading the nation, and I want to encourage you to participate as we bring energy efficiency into our daily lives."
